Battle of Windrush Valley

A chalkboard with a dark, textured surface. The words "Any Questions" are written in white chalk in a cursive, handwritten style. The word "Any" is on the top line, and "Questions" is on the bottom line. The chalk has a slightly grainy texture, and there are some faint, darker smudges on the board around the text.

Spectators hurt in fire at Civil War re-enactment

GRAHAM MOOREBY | Monday 29 August 1894 00:02 |

AT LEAST 20 people were hurt and up to 50 cars burnt out yesterday when fire engulfed a car park while thousands of Bank Holiday spectators watched a re-enactment of a Civil War battle.

Crowds fled in panic as flames fanned by strong winds moved towards them during the display by the Sealed Knot Society, named after the Royalist secret society, at Witney in Oxfordshire.

Fifty firemen fought the blaze and society members in costume abandoned the reconstruction to help keep the crowds away. Firemen took 30 minutes to extinguish the flames and motoring organisations towed gutted vehicles from the scene and helped to get others started.
